Macroeconomic Overview

The S&P 500®'s 4.5% third-quarter return marked its eighth consecutive quarterly gain. Earnings growth has been fueling the U.S. stock rally, with earnings for S&P 500® companies outpacing year-ago levels by more than 10%. The macroeconomic landscape has been strong too: Manufacturing activity grew in September at the fastest rate since May 2004. These factors have helped push the S&P 500® up 14.2% so far this year. International stocks continued to outperform in the third quarter, with the MSCI EAFE Index gaining 5.4% and the MSCI Emerging Market rising 7.9%. The MSCI EAFE Index is up 20% year to date and the MSCI Emerging Markets Index 27.8%. Bonds have withstood two Federal Reserve rate hikes so far this year. The Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index returned 0.8% in the quarter and is up 3.1% year to date. High-yield bonds and emerging-markets debt have topped those returns.

Fund Overview

In 2017's third quarter, Transamerica Asset Allocation—Growth Portfolio's 4.40% return was slightly ahead the 4.30% return of the blended benchmark. An overweight to foreign stocks was positive, as international stocks outpaced U.S. stocks. Overweighting emerging-markets equity was especially helpful, and built-in exposure to international small caps provided a nice boost. These positives were partly offset by a modest underweight in equity (92.4% as of September 30, 2017), which comes entirely from the U.S. side, where management believes valuations are stretched. Meanwhile, the portfolio's absolute-return strategy sleeve lagged the stock market's gains in the quarter. The energy-infrastructure fund Transamerica MLP & Energy Income also lagged the overall market, but management sees value in that asset class.

Outlook

Morningstar considers U.S. stocks to be trading expensively following eight consecutive quarterly gains in the S&P 500® and a 37% rise since September 2015. Morningstar is therefore modestly underweighting overall equity in the portfolio while favoring foreign equities. While the portfolio is underweight equity on the whole (92.4% of assets versus the blended benchmark's 95% target), the underweight comes from the U.S. side, as foreign equity is actually overweight the benchmark. The non-equity assets are mostly in absolute-return strategies, which currently make up 5.5% of assets. The portfolio holds a position in energy infrastructure via the Transamerica MLP & Energy Income Fund (4.2% of assets at quarter-end). Management believes the market is irrationally undervaluing oil and gas pipeline and storage facilities in reaction to lower oil prices.

The Wilshire 5000 Total Market Index and Transamerica Asset Allocation - Growth Blended Benchmark (Asset Alloc. - Growth Blended Benchmark) (63% S&P 500®, 27% MSCI Europe, Australasia and Far East, and 10% Bloomberg Barclays 1-3 Year U.S. Treasury Index) are unmanaged indices used as general measures of market performance. It is not possible to invest directly into an index. Calculations assume dividends and capital gains are reinvested and do not include any managerial expenses.

Asset allocation, like many investment strategies, offers no guarantee of positive returns, and mutual funds are subject to market risk, including loss of principal. Global/international stock funds and specialty/sector funds are subject to additional market risks. Fees associated with a fund-of-funds may be higher than with other funds. Funds that invest in small- and medium-sized companies present additional risks such as increased volatility because their earnings are less predictable, their share price more volatile, and their securities less liquid than larger or more established companies.
